

Interested in a Career in Biomedical Research?

Come to UC Davis!

Apply to the Graduate Group in Integrative Pathobiology

A Translational Program for the Health of All

GGIP Offers Graduate Students:

- A Multidisciplinary, Collaborative, Inclusive Research Environment
- M.S. or Ph.D.
- Laboratory Rotations
- Access to Professional Development
- Opportunities with School of Medicine and Veterinary Medicine (#1 Veterinary School in the country)
- We are an Anti-Racist Graduate Group with a Commitment to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion
- Excellent Mentorship from Motivated Faculty
- Designated Emphases in:
 - Biology of Vector-borne Disease
 - Biotechnology
 - Host-Microbe Interactions
 - Reproductive Biology
 - Translational Research

UC Davis is located in sunny northern California just 20 minutes from the capitol, Sacramento. The city of Davis is a vibrant college town with close proximity to world class locations such as Lake Tahoe, Napa Valley, and San Francisco.

Virtual Open House

November 6, 1-2pm PST

on Zoom (click here for registration link)

Applications received by Dec. 1st will be considered for priority evaluation and several funding opportunities. We strongly recommend you apply by this date.

Applications received Dec. 2nd - Mar. 1st will only be considered if spots are available.

GRE scores are not required.

Applicants who are affiliated with one or more Graduate Prep programs are eligible for graduate application fee waivers.

Domestic PhD applicants from economically disadvantaged or underrepresented backgrounds requesting a fee waiver are encouraged to apply for the GGIP Equity Program.

Check us out at integrativepath.vetmed.ucdavis.edu

More questions?

Email Dr. Sara Thomasy, GGIP Co-Chair at smthomasy@ucdavis.edu

Get to know us better:

Twitter: @GGIPstudents Facebook: ggipstudents

